Negative Effect of Tobacco Use in Spain

Tobacco use harms both the public and fiscal health of Spain, threatening efforts to improve equity, alleviate poverty, and protect the environment.

Societal Harms

The economic cost of smoking in Spain is 18,543,134,720 euros. This includes direct costs related to healthcare expenditures and indirect costs related to lost productivity caused by illness and premature death.

Harms Development

Tobacco spending diverts funds from the resources that families need to rise out of poverty. On average in Spain, a smoker must spend 2.13% of GDP per capita to buy 100 packs of the most popular cigarettes in a year.

Environmental Harms

Cigarette butts are the most commonly discarded pieces of waste worldwide. It is estimated that 9,860 tons of butts wind up as toxic trash in Spain each year, equal to 2,817 female African elephants.

Harms Health Equity

The tobacco industry markets its products aggressively to lower-income populations and youth in Spain.

Harms NCDs

Not only is smoking a major risk factor for the 4 largest noncommunicable diseases (cancer, heart diseases, respiratory diseases, and diabetes), but people living with mental illness are nearly 2x as likely to smoke as other individuals.

Ending the Tobacco Epidemic in Spain

Fortunately, there are evidence-based -i.e. proven -solutions to the challenges posed by tobacco use. For several decades, governments around the world have been introducing a set of policies that address the demand for tobacco products, particularly among youth. These policies effectively reduce consumption and are cost-effective because they save governments enormous amounts of money in health care spending and increase economic productivity.
